Matthew E. Flynn, Former Addison Businessman, Dies

Retired Tannery Superintendent Passes Suddenly Saturday Evening—Once Owned and Operated Addison Roller Mills — Funeral at St. Catherine's Tuesday.

Matthew E. Flynn, prominent retired tannery superintendent and mill operator, died suddenly at his Addison home Saturday evening from a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been in failing health for the past two years.

Mr. Flynn was born March 26, 1877, in Little Equinunk, Pa., a son of the late Thomas and Catherine Lawler Flynn. His father was a recognized authority in the leather industry, being noted as the discoverer of Acmoid, a preparation for giving weight to leather. When very young, Mr. Flynn removed with his parents to Campbell, N. Y., where his education was obtained. He subsequently went to Bangor, Maine, where for a number of years he served as superintendent of a tannery. Returning to Steuben County, he became superintendent of the U. S. Leather Company plant at Curtis, his father at that time being general superintendent of all U. S. Leather Company tanneries. A few years later his father withdrew from the U. S. Leather Company to form a firm of T. A. Flynn & Sons Co., manufacturers and distributors of Acmoid at Olean, and Mr. Flynn came to Addison, purchasing the Addison Roller Mills from Josiah Curtis. After engaging in the milling business for a number of years, he became a salesman for the Pillsbury mills. In recent years he had retired from business activity.

On September 24, 1902, Mr. Flynn was united in marriage to Miss Madge Hickey of Addison, who survives. Other survivors include a son, Robert L. Flynn of New York City, a daughter, Miss Catherine Flynn, teacher of home economics in Highland Manor Junior College, at Tarrytown; a brother, William A. Flynn of Olean; four sisters, Mrs. William Durkin, Mrs. Edward Colligan, Miss Mary Flynn, Miss Margaret Flynn, all of Olean; one grandson, Robert L. Flynn, Jr., of New York City; also the following nephews and nieces: Dr. James Durkin of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Louis Westcott of Pittsburgh, Pa., Mrs. John R. Gavin and William Durkin of Olean, Father Owen Anthony Colligan, O.F.M., and Father Flavian Colligan, O.F.M., both of the Franciscan Monastery at Washington, D. C.

For many years Mr. Flynn had served as trustee of St. Catherine's Church. He was also a member of St. Catherine's Men's Social Club and of the Knights of Columbus. Of jovial disposition, he was commonly regarded as everybody's friend. Noted for his interest in everyday events of the community and in incidents affecting the lives and happiness of his associates, he was widely acknowledged as a man who spoke only good of his neighbors and friends and was ever ready to assist them in any way possible.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning at nine o'clock, at St. Catherine's Church, the Rev. Francit T. Moffett, pastor, officiating at a solemn high mass of requiem. The Rev. Timothy Monahan, O.F.M., of New York City, was in the sanctuary. Bearers were Attorney John Hickey of Washington, D. C., Edward Colligan of Olean, Jack Mack, of Hornell, Martin L. Train, Michael Kerins and Timothy C. Tobin of Addison. Burial was in St. Catherine's Cemetery.

Hornell Paper Turns Down Local Candidate to Support Joe Bailey

Addison Republicans voting in the Primaries next Tuesday will have no problem in choosing Joseph Bailey as their favorite candidate for the nomination for Steuben County Sheriff. "Joe" Bailey not only claims local allegiance on the grounds of being a favorite son, but has amply earned the support of people in this and other parts of the county by his record of fulfillment of duties in the Undersheriff's office the past three years.

The only fear Mr. Bailey's friends may have of his success in the Tuesday balloting, rests in the fact another man by the name of Bailey is also on the ticket, Clarence Bailey of Hornell. The following editorial in the Hornell Tribune of recent date expresses the views of that paper's publisher regarding the fitness of the two men for the office:

"When Republican voters face the problem of selecting a candidate for nomination for the office of sheriff they will choose one of three men, and of one there is no question but that he is fitted for the office. Undersheriff Joseph L. Bailey is without a doubt the man.

"As undersheriff since January 1, 1934 Mr. Bailey has been closely connected with Sheriff Fred Cornell who has been able to effect practically a 20 per cent saving in the cost of operating the department. Mr. Bailey has seen by personal experience that the office can be run at a saving to the taxpayer. Mr. Bailey is in a position to carry out such a program, for by personal experience he has aided in doing it and can be relied upon to continue the program.

"Five years ago when Mr. Bailey was Deputy State Master of Steuben Pomona Grange he initiated a campaign for economy in the county government. After some struggle a reduction in the budget was brought about. He can be relied upon to continue operating the sheriff's office at the lowest figure commensurate with adequate enforcement of the law and functioning of the office. For the past three years his accounts as undersheriff have been the lowest of any incumbent of that office for the past few administrations.

"There are other sides to the sheriff's office than the financial however, and in the criminal and civil work we believe that Mr. Bailey is again best fitted. His record and experience over the past three years should serve as a reminder to the voters that he is well qualified.

"In discussing the qualifications favoring one man for the office the voter should not forget disqualifications inherent on the other candidates. Clarence Bailey was for some time the Chief of Police of Hornell, but under his administration it was the sheriff's office which presented to the grand jury the evidence which led to the suppression of an arson ring which flourished here for some time. If an officer could not protect his own city from a vicious ring of criminals how can he protect the county? Clarence Bailey being Chief of Police of a city has no outstanding qualifications on this account for the position. Furthermore, he

P. T. A. Reception

A reception for the faculty of the Woodhull High School was given by the Parent-Teacher Association Tuesday evening in the school auditorium. Miss Jannette White of Sherril, a new member on the staff in charge of the musical department and former members of the faculty together with many members of the P. T. A. were present. Various games were played and a social evening enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

R. S. DeLong Enjoys Auto Trailer Life

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. DeLong of Fredonia, N. Y. were in Addison this week to renew their subscription to the Woodhull Sentinel. Both Mr. and Mrs. DeLong told how they look forward to the arrival of their home town paper each week, "just like a letter from home."

Mr. DeLong is a retired railway mail clerk who says that all he has to do now is to spend his time "seeing the world." To assist them in seeing the world the DeLongs have lately purchased an auto trailer with which they were traveling this week. Tis trailer is a completely equipped living unit having two beds, heating and cooking stoves, water tank and sink, clothes presses, cupboards, electric lights and in fact every convenience one could wish for in a little home while on the road.

As soon as the family votes are cast for President in the November election this outfit will be headed towards the southland, where snow and icy winds hold no terror. Both Mr. and Mrs. DeLong are old Woodhull residents.

Variety Shower

A variety shower was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner one evening last week with Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shaw, guests of honor. Many attractive and useful gifts were presented Mr. and Mrs. Shaw.

Refreshments were served to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Holt Smith, Miss Almeda Smith, Mrs. Ida Symonds, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Taft and son James, Miss Lena Minier, Mrs. Robert Mason, Mrs. George Symonds, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Oakley, Mrs. Jabe Johnson, the Rev. and Mrs. Wesley Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. Walsteen Church and daughter Lois, Daisy Miller, Clarence and Arthur Miller, Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner and the complimented guests, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Shaw.

Entertain Mission Group

The Misses Myrtle and Ethlyn Paul were hostesses to the Missionary Society of the East Troupsburg Baptist Church at their home Wednesday of last week.

Dinner was served to the following: Mrs. George Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tyler, Mrs. Niles Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Whitehead, children Louise and Dwight; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Symonds, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Symonds, Miss Jennie Miller, Mrs. Gertrude Paul, Mrs. Emma Niles, Mrs. Mildred Niles, Miss Lillian Brewer, Mrs. Nora Husted, Mrs. Earl Brutsman and daughter Janet, Mrs. Walter McMindes, Mrs. Jennie Hopper, Erwin Paul, Hugh Paul and the hostess, Misses Paul.

REBEKAHS TO MEET

The Rebekah Lodge will convene Friday evening September 11 after the summer vacation. Mrs. Curtis Oakley, noble grand, requests all members to be present.

New Law Firm is Established Here

Mordecai Casson and Hugh A. Varn have just announced the establishment of a new law firm which will have offices in Addison and Elmira. Associated with Mr. Casson and Mr. Varn will be Cola W. Lyon of Elmira who has been engaged in general practice in that city for the past twenty years. The firm will practice under the name of Lyon, Casson and Varn.

Mr. Casson is well known to Addison people having spent a portion of his time in his office here and the remainder in Elmira for about 15 years. He is now acting city judge in Elmira and will continue to come to Addison Tuesdays and Fridays each week. Mr. Varn, who was born in Addison and graduated from the Albany Law College, was associated for a time with James O. Sebring in Corning. For the past several months he has been practicing independently in this place. The new firm will occupy the offices over the Davis Clothing Store where Mr. Casson has conducted his Addison business for a number of years.

According to plans announced yesterday Mr. Lyon will devote the major portion of his time to the Elmira Office, Mr. Varn will devote the greater part of his time to the Addison office, and assist with all trial work with which the firm is connected. While Mr. Casson will divide his time between the two offices.

Woodhull Republicans Hold Old-Time Political Rally

Woodhull, Sept. 9—Under the auspices of the Woodhull Republican Committee an old-time political rally was held in Odd Fellows' Hall with a capacity attendance. Many members of the audience were residents of nearby farms and they expressed deep interest in the discussion of taxes under the present administration.

Thomas Bannister, Corning, former alderman and New York Central Railroad dispatcher, was the first speaker and gave an instructive address on the cost of the New Deal to the average man and woman. He impressed the thought that under Landon, as President, business will be more inclined to re-employ the nearly 11,000,000 now jobless and thus remove from relief rolls those who are crying for jobs instead of restricted federal doles.

Attorney Clarence H. Brisco, city attorney of Corning, reviewed the acts of the administration and compared its policy of killing little pigs and plowing under grain, in seasons of plenty, to the system outlined in the Bible of conserving the results of years of plenty for the lean years. He commented that because of Roosevelt's reversal of this common sense policy people will pay high prices, this year, for the essentials that should be plentiful despite the drouth. "Your grocery bill will tell you exactly what the New Deal has done for you", he said.

Attorney George A. King, Corning, was introduced by Chairman Walter Smith as "the man we want for District Attorney and who will be nominated and elected to that office." Mr. King was received with utmost enthusiasm and, ignoring his own campaign, pleaded for the election of Landon and Knox. As the son of a farmer and owner fo a productive farm.

Addison High School Opens With Increase in Academic Students

School Opened Tuesday for 1936-37 Year with Irving Gladstone Supervising Principal — Total Enrollment in all Departments Reached 501 Yesterday — Increased Academic Registration Credit to Free Text Books.

School opened in Addison Tuesday morning with a total enrollment of 501 students in the grades and academic departments. This number is practically the same as the initial enrollment for the entire school at its opening in 1935, but slightly smaller than the enrollment at the beginning of 1934.

Enrollment in the academic department at the opening of school this year is 254, which is 22 larger than a year ago and exactly the same as 1934. The largest class in the high school is the junior class group which numbers over 60 and necessitates the use of two home rooms for the one class. Supervising Principal Irving R. Gladstone expressed himself yesterday as being especially gratified with the increased enrollment this year in the Homemaking Department. There are 20 pupils enrolled in Homemaking I, 25 in Homemaking II, 12 in Homemaking IV, and 13 in Design. Homemaking I and II are divided into two class groups each.

Total enrollment in the grades Tuesday was 247. This number is divided between the various grades as follows: Grade I, 26; Grade II, 25; Grade III, 26; Grade IV, 32; Grade V, 40; Grade VI, 24; Grade VII, 34; Grade VIII, 40. Enrollment in the grades and academic departments together reached 501 yesterday morning, and this number will doubtless be increased in the next two weeks by late registrants both in the high school and grades.

Mr. Gladstone expressed the belief that increased academic enrollment could be attributed to the furnishing of free text books to students this year.

Advertising Club Holds First Meeting Following Vacation

Committee Reports on Plan for Screening Unsightly Dumping Grounds at West End of Village — Members Discuss Possibility of Combining School for Centralized District.

An open forum for discussion of community problems was held at the meeting of the Addison Advertising Club yesterday noon. This meeting marked the opening of the club's yearly program, following the two months vacation period.

Ray S. Brown, chairman of the committee appointed last spring to advise ways of disposing of the village dump at the west end of the corporation, gave a detailed report. Mr. Brown stated the committee had been unable to find any location for a village dump as practical as the spot now in use. However, it advised the leveling off of the bank of this pond which is utilized and passage of an ordinance to compel the public to dump refuse only in the pond itself, instead of strewing same along the banks where an unsightly looking spot is created. It was also advised that the area used for dumping purposes should be limited and screened from sight by a fence.

The club voted to have a resolution presented to both the Addison Town Board and the Addison Village Board for action in this matter.

Judge Edwin C. Smith spoke on the subject of establishing a central school district in Addison. He stated that a state official had suggested to him that changing the present school disrict into a centralized district would save local tax payers large sums of money each year and would greatly benefit the residents of surrounding districts that combined with Addison. The subject was discussed by several members of the club and a committee appointed to investigate the matter further.

There were 36 members and guests at the dinner. Singing was led by the Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold and Mrs. Frank Kelly played the piano.

Railroad Brotherhood Men Endorse Cole for Re-election

Corning, Sept. 9—Congressman W. Sterling Cole's consistent and conscientious work for his constituents has juust been given recognition by railroad employes in addition to the recognition already given him by rural interests and residents of the several cities and large towns in the 37th District. Railroad men, of whom there are large numbers in Hornell, Corning, Elmira and Waverly, in particular, have been requested to work for his renomination and re-election.

Abram C. Dixon of 73 Perry Avenue, Corning, state legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen & Engineers, has been notified by Arthur J. Lovell, Washington, D. C., vice president of the brotherhood, that the railroad men have passed upon and approved the Congressional record of Congressman Cole and he has been listed as one of the representatives seeking re-election to Congress whom the organization will support.

The letter also says:

"We urge that each and every member of our Brotherhood take an active personal interest in the present campaign to the end that its members, their families and friends, as well as other working men and women, go to the polls Sept. 15 and vote". The letter then lists Mr. Cole as the man to be supported by all workers in the 37th Congressional District.

In addition to this F. H. Fliozdal, president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes, asks all members of his organization to work and vote for Mr. Cole, while George M. Harrison, Grand President of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes, has written to local officers that Mr. Cole has been endorsed for re-election and members are urged to support him as a real friend of labor.

TUGWELL'S AMBITIONS

Citizens who have been naturally suspicious of the socialistic writings and speeches of Roosevelt's adviser, Rex Tugwell, have wondered why his Resettlement Administration was being kept so largely shut off from the public view in this election year. To learn the reason for this silence Charles Stevenson a writer for Nation's Business, has probed deeply into this government paid-for project and set forth his findings in that magazine. We quote a few of the things Mr. Stevenson has unearthed.

"Mystery in government invariably arouses suspicion. in the present case, one is tempted to wonder what is so repugnant about this ostensibly altruistic work that, in the closing days of Congress, an effort should be made to consign Dr. Tugwell's program to oblivion by withholding appropriations. And again the citizen wonders what about the activity is regarded as so essential that funds were found in relief appropriations, even though this meant antagonizing party leaders, projecting Dr. Tugwell into the political campaign, and avoiding a court decision that Resettlement is unconstitutional?

"In a footnote on page 73 of his book, 'The Industrial Discipline', Dr. Tugwell says that 'we have an exaggerated fear of invading individual rights', On page 84 he remarks that 'our institutions are so built into our regard that we award them to loyalty they have not deserved'.

"Under the circumstances the taxpayer cannot be regarded as reactionary if he desires to scrutinize the Resettlement Administration, not to look again at the tons of official press releases which endlessly reiterate the acknowledged benefits of comfortable homes, of happy children, of ending poverty, but to delve into the principles on which the agency is founded; to investigate, not from a partisan viewpoint, but simply to exercise the citizen's right to ascertain what prompts Dr. Tugwell to consider expenditure of his tax payments a private matter.

"As a newspaperman I investigated the Resettlement Administration for three months. I learned a lot. And—I hesitate to say this because it appears sensational and far-fetched—I learned that, if you probe deeply enough, you discover Dr. Tugwell engaged in a program which his sponsors and his advisers openly assert is designed to substitute for our existing economic-social-political structure a "Cooperative Democracy", devoid of private industry, with a new form of parliament, a new executive plan, a new set of courts.

"To the casual eye, Resettlement is a maze of unrelated activities; but boil off expensive projects which attract all attention to obvious waste and mistakes, boil off the regimentation which so blinds the rugged individualist with fury that he sees nothing else, and you find every activity coordinated to create the nucleus of a super-race saturated in socialism, its entire economic existence to be woven into a "cooperative system" whose purpose is to transfer the profits of private enterprises to competing businesses theoretically owned by the laborer-consumer but directed and financed by government * * *.

"One might charge it as un-American to snuff out individualsm for regimentation. However, resettlement families admittedly have been selected for their 'willingness to cooperate'; they have been so subsidized that, if by chance they do feel a loss of liberty, their knowledge that Uncle Sam is providing picture-book homes, employment, food, income, even relieving them of the necessity of thinking, appears to have a weightier appeal. Too, the Government has letters of application from some of its rehabilitants who live managed lives in their own hovels while an attempt is made to reconstruct them into fit material for colonization. If all are not happier, they at least are helpless. They require money to exist. They have no property to mortgage, so the Government makes loans on their bodies. They are told what to grow on their farms. Even their recreation is managed.

"It is inevitable that these activities tend to perpetuate bureaucracy and the party in power. Not only do they require an administrative army of nearly 20,000 New Dealers drawing about $25,000,000 a year, but naturally, if clients are being molded physically, mentally and economically by a paternal dictatorship, they also will vote the way they are molded. But Tugwellians reply that a man who is so unlucky or incapable that he cannot support himself requires some one to manage his life, that management is essential to give the Government at least a hope of recovering the funds it lends him, that if there are evils they are unavoidable.

"So much for the moral issue which can be argued from two sides. When the critic looks at Resettlement from the standpoint of practicability he is on firmer ground. Indeed, during the first year of its existence, it cost Resettlement $20,795,896 to administer the job of paying out $79,110,967 for all enterprises; and all Dr. Tugwell can reply is that he is lowering his administrative costs and hopes eventually to fix them at ten per cent.

"Expensive projects are countless. One for South Dakota is scheduled to cost $20,584 per family although Harry L. Hopkins, as FERA administrator, started to build it for $5,225. All Dr. Tugwell can reply is that this and similar projects are 'mistakes'.

Point out that Dr. Tugwell has designed projects of his own to cost $11,440 per family in Indiana, $11,137 in Arizona, $10,945 in Missouri, and more than $9,000 in Washington, Oklahoma, North Dakota and Texas, and the Professor only can explain that these are the 'cream in the neck of the bottle', that other projects will be cheaper. Point out that most of them cost $5,000 or more; ask how a man so unfortunate or ill-fated that he heretofore has existed most of his days in extreme poverty or on charity, ever is to collect the $1,500 to $3,000 which the government says he must earn annually to pay for his benefits, and the answer will be:

" 'Well, what difference does the cost make so long as we have arranged to find him the income? * * *

"Ever since 1933, the man who was catapulted from a Columbia University professor's chair into a little dictatorship, has been hinting at great plans and the fact that he continues to promote his ideas is evidence that he has approval in high places.

"In 'The Industrial Discipline', Tugwell declares: 'I believe, myself, that we are within a stone's throw of the end of labor—as labor, not as willing and cooperative activity . . . With the business man's monopoly broken, the way will lie open for reconstructive action.'

"In 'The Battle for Democracy', published last year, he says: 'Therefore, what is demanded of us in America today is the making over of the institutions controlled by and operated for the benefit of the few so that, regardless of their control, they shall be operated for the benefit of the many.'

"Again he points out that men are glad to work for themselves, as they would in a 'Cooperative Democracy', but: 'The Industrial system has been turned into an autocracy which was well on the way to killing this impulse in men. It must be shown this cannot be tolerated. This is where our duty lies: The rescue of men from oppression . . . The challenge is an open one to our society. The opportunity is great. The time is now!' "

Rex Tugwell, who certaily is carrying out ideas that appeal to Roosevelt, else the latter never would have handed him all this federal money, is one more reason voters believing in American institutions will vote the President out of power. Adherents of Socialism should be able to find their heart's desire in Russia, but believers in true Democracy will cling to our tried system of government and retire Rex Tugwell from the national stage.

THE DIGEST POLL

First tabulations in the Literary Digest poll last week showed the early straw voters are for Landon by a strong majority. While the first votes counted are from scattering sections and by no means complete in any sense, there are grounds for comparison which hold small grains of comfort for Jim Farley, who braggardly claimed last June that Roosevelt would capture the electoral votes of all 48 states.

The total result of the first tabulation showed Landon to be leading Roosevelt by approximately two-to-one, even such Democratic strongholds as Newark, N. J. giving the Kansan a comfortable majority of the first straw votes. Pennsylvania gave the Governor more than a two-to-one lead, even the coal mining town of Shamokin registered a strong preference for the Republican candidate.

Naturally the Roosevelt campaign managers will retort to the poll that these first scattering results are unreliable. It is granted the entire picture cannot be revealed by tabulations of the first returns in so great a poll as the ten million ballots broadcast by the Digest, yet there is one comparison on which the Landon camp cannot fail to place reasonable reliance. The first tabulations in the Digest poll four years ago showed Roosevelt to be leading Hoover by a wide majority. In 1932 the Republicans deprecated these figures and claimed they were no true reflections of public sentiment all over the country. Today the picture is exactly reversed. Landon's lead over Roosevelt is as great or greater in practically all of the same towns and cities, as was the latter's lead over Hoover in 1932 when the early tabulations were broadcast. Jim Farley has already stupidly declared the "only poll I am interested in, is the poll of the voters next November". Yet this same politician Farley was pointing to the digest poll four years ago as one of the indications of an overwhelming vote for Roosevelt—a prediction which did prove to be true in that instance.

Disinterested political commentators up to last week have been predicting a close race this year, on the assumption of Roosevelt's big majority in 1932. Yet Hoover had a tremendous majority over Al Smith in 1928, only to lose badly four years later. As a matter of actual fact, as the Digest poll indicates, the Roosevelt following in 1936 is not anywhere near as large as his supporters have believed and claimed. Union labor casts about one vote out of eleven the country over,

THAT DISINTERESTED PARTY

By BROWN

Communism and Fascism Seen Making Progress in America

By MARK SULLIVAN

AT WASHINGTON one day recently the National Press Club listened to a luncheon address by Mr. Earl Browder, Presidential candidate of the Communist party. As the major theme of his talk Mr. Browder chose freedom of the press. He said he was for it, and he strongly implied that America does not have it. The American press consists of privately owned newspapers and periodicals. Therefore, Mr. Browder said, the press in America is committed to what he calls the "capitalist system" as against the communist system.

At that some of the newspaper audience bristled a little, and when the question period came they gave Mr. Browder a rather uncomfortable time. They asked him whether communist Russia has freedom of the press. He said it has, because, as he put it, the Russian official press says what 99 per cent of the Russian people believe. A questioner accepted Mr. Browder's statistics for the sake of argument, and then asked him whether communist Russia would tolerate the existence of any newspaper expressing the views of the 1 per cent minority. Mr. Browder answered sharply, "No." He added—as if this explained it—"Russian communism believes in majority rule."

At that much of the audience laughed, some a little jeeringly. They saw the corollary of Mr. Browder's principle. Complete, the statement would be: "Russian communism believes in majority rule—and minority silence." That illustrates the heart of the communist conception of government (and also of the Fascist conception). Minorities, and individuals, have no rights which the government needs to respect. Dissent, opposition, criticism—all these are treason and must not be allowed to express themselves.

Communism's repression of freedom of opinion, and the American system's permission of it, amount to a paradox which is curious and may become serious. Let us put it this way:

The American system permits freedom of opinion. Communism takes advantage of that freedom. Communism publishes newspapers in New York and elsewhere, communism publishes books. Communists make speeches which the press reports. The Communist candidate for President recently made a radio speech. He makes a speech to the most important press club in the country. But—if communism succeeds in America, communism will promptly and forcibly forbid freedom of expression. To put the paradox another way: The American system permits freedom of speech to advocates of a system which itself forbids freedom of speech. As communism grows in America, America will need to do some thinking about that paradox.

Mr. Browder said that he and his party regard, as their chief concern, the arising of Fascism in America. He said Fascism is under way here. As proof, he cited a conversation he had had with a reporter (whom he did not name) on a newspaper (which he did not name). The nameless reporter had talked with an executive of a large business (likewise nameless). The reporter had asked the business executive what the business executive would do if Mr. Roosevelt wins the coming election. The executive replied: "We won't take it lying down." That superlatively anonymous evidence was all the proof Mr. Browder produced to show that Fascism is arising in America.

Nevertheless, there is some basis for Mr. Browder's apprehension about Fascism. In countries in which Communism gets a foothold, Fascism arises as a kind of antidote to it. That has been the pattern in Italy, Germany and Spain. When Mr. Browder expressed fear of Fascism in America, he was really expressing hope of Communism. If he did not expect that Communism would make formidable progress here, he would not fear that Fascism would arise here.

What America—that is, the part of America that believes in the American system—needs to apprehend are three things. They are:

Communism;
Fascism;
Strife between the two.

If anybody knows what is the best course to avert those three, that is the course which those who believe in the American system ought to take. To Americans Communism and Fascism are equally odious. Both practice dictatorship, both get rid of parliamentary government. Both regard dissent as treason and ruthlessly stamp it down. Both deny freedom of the press and of opinion. Both deny freedom of religion. Both deny that the individual has any rights which government needs to respect. Both assert that government has unlimited right of compulsion upon the individual.

The only material difference between Fascism and Communism is that Fascism permits private ownership of property, while Communism denies it. And that difference is likely to be ephemeral. A Fascist dictator, like a Communist one, will do whatever will help to keep himself in power. When denial of the right of private property will help, the Fascist dictator will take that step. Mussolini has already made a move in that direction.

Mr. Browder, as candidate of the Communist party, and as participant in the international program of that party, knows well the forces at work in the world, including America. He knows them better than any leader of the familiar American parties, and of course infinitely better than any average American. It is significant and somber to observe that his discussion of the present situation in America was put fundamentally in terms of Communism versus Fascism, rather than in terms of Republican versus Democratic.

Governor Landon Versus Robinson

by Dorothy Thompson

On August 27 in Buffalo Governor Landon spoke on the government's tax program. He especially attacked the 1936 corporation tax bill. He said that it was "careless and ill-advised legislation," which, "in effect, forbids the restoration of reserves exhausted by the depression. It has," he said, "no relation to 'soaking the rich.' What it does is to tie a millstone around the neck of the little fellow."

Two days later Senator Robinson answered him in Little Rock. The Senator said: "If he would read the bill himself Governor Landon would see that it provides a cushion for small business corporations, enables them to build up capital reserves, and that the measure is specifically designed to impose the burden of taxes on those having the ability to pay. In other words, the 1936 tax bill, instead of soaking the little fellows, makes certain that the wealthy individuals and corporations shall contribute their just share."

Here, then, are two diametrically opposite statements about the effect of the corporation tax bill. Governor Landon, who has no gift of eloquence, and whose speeches suffer by their slow and prosaic manner of expression and utterance, said one thing. He said this bill hits the small industrialist and can be met by the large and powerful corporations. Senator Robinson, whose speech was more spirited, more readable, and, perhaps, better tuned to what the larger part of the American public likes to hear, says the bill protects the little fellow and puts the burden on wealthy individuals and corporations. But we are not concerned with who made the better speech. We are concerned only with which of these contradictory statements tells the truth.

The first column that ever appeared under my name attacked the manner in which the corporation tax bill, in any case a serious taxation measure, was hastily thrown into Congress and rushed through with inadequate expert advice. As to the merits of the bill I was not sure. Since then I have discussed it with a great many people. I have discussed it with the president of one of the largest corporations in the United States, with tax experts and especially with managers and directors of small businesses. I have asked the opinion of Republicans and Democrats, and the overwhelming burden of their opinion is that Governor Landon is right and Senator Robinson is wrong. Leaving politics aside, Mr. Adolph Berle agrees, I understand, with Governor Landon. And so does Mr. Raymond Moley.

A specific example is perhaps more illuminating than any number of generalizations. I have in mind a small but highly efficient and successful industry in New England. It is one of the small decentralized industries which the present Administration has been so loud in praising and recommending. It produces a product requiring an exceptionally high degree of skill. Since it produces not consumers' goods but products for other industries, it is peculiarly susceptible to fluctuations, and depends upon a steady capital goods market. Its president and actual manager is a man whose abilities both in management and in economic theory have been recognized more than once by the present Administration. And he has supported many measures of the Federal government, publicly and privately. The industry is one of the soundest as well as one of the oldest in the United States. Let us see what this bill does to it.

The president of the company has been kind enough to put the exact figures at my disposal. They show that in 1929, following four years of expanding business and profitable operation, the company had laid by reserves of $1,455,454.88 in actual cash or in money due, which was as good as cash. During the same period it had constantly increased employment, raised wages and paid increased dividends. When the depression came, business fell off immediately. In accordance with the peculiar nature of the industry orders dropped to a minute fraction of their normal volume. The company immediately ceased paying dividends. Wage rates were lowered moderately and hours had to be shortened more and more. But the industry kept every man possible employed on some basis, and for two reasons. Leaving humanitarian considerations out of the picture, this is a highly personalized industry; it is situated in a small town, where the griefs of the workingmen cannot be isolated in some distant slum but are in the owners' front yards. And, secondly, it is an industry requiring a highly skilled personnel, and the disruption of the organization would be serious. It concentrated, therefore, on improving methods, on active research, on the production of a reserve of goods, and helped by orders from abroad, managed to survive. But it spent its whole million-dollar reserve, and was forced to borrow another quarter-million from the bank to keep going.

The reserve plus the debt tided the industry over. Business began to recover, and no man has been more ready than its president to give credit for this to certain governmental measures. The industry eventually went back on full time and employed more men. Deficits were changed into profits. The industry is making money, and by next December promises to show a profit of $500,000.

What will become of these profits? One hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars must be repaid to the bank. Working capital for increased output and increased employment during the current year will take another $175,000. The state income tax will take $10,000 and the Federal income tax will take $73,500. That will leave $106,500 presumably for payment of dividends and for beginning a new reserve. But the undistributed profits tax steps in here. It adds just $94,500 to the tax load. For repaying its debts the industry will be taxed 20½ per cent of what it pays; for increasing pay rolls and employment it will be further taxed 20½ per cent on what it diverts for this purpose. And when all is added together a company which shows a profit of $500,000 will have left to distribute in dividends and to build up reserves against a rainy day precisely $12,000.

There are other facets to this particular illustration. From this single small-town industry numerous others have sprung. They were not started by finance capitalism or by "economic royalists." They were started for the most part by draughtsmen, who perfected some new process, patented it, and went into business. One of these branch industries now supports several hundreds of employees. Not one of them would have been possible if they had had to start under the handicap of the present taxation. They could not have built up reserves out of their own earnings and would quickly have become mortgaged to the banks.

My informant says: this bill ought to be called "An Act to Prevent the Paying of Dividends, to Reduce Payrolls During Hard Times and in General to Deepen and Extend the Next Depression."

Actually what the bill does is to enforce a practice—that of draining the reserves—which already, through the greed of some owners, has ruined many small industries. Those stockholders paid the money to themselves; these must pay it to the state. The effect on the industry is the same. It will push the weaker small industries out of existence and it will freeze even the most efficient ones where they are. In fact, it will tend to freeze all industry in the present pattern. Small concerns will stay small; big ones will stay big. If this is what the Adminisration really wants I shall be very much surprised.

For this type of business does not represent the "economic royalists"; it represents the soundest, most responsible type of true private enterprise. And if that type of enterprise passes out of the picture of American life it will not be because it died a natural death. It will have been assassinated.

Campaign Headquarters of Both Parties Feverish With Excitement

Albany—To the tune of lilting music, Gilbert and Sullivan once wrote, "A policeman's life is not a happy one", and, if the immortal Twain were alive today they might well indite still another imperishable ditty having to do with the trials and tribulations of reporters assigned to the arduous task of "covering" the various campaign headquarters of both Republican and Democratic national and State Committees, offices of which are located in New York City.

Take it from leg-weary newsmen, political reporting in campaign times, is not what it's cracked up to be. This because they spend most of their waking hours treking from one headquarters to the other in search of news, facts which might be made into news following investigation, and in collecting the over-abundant mimeographed statements issued by celebrities and near celebrities which abound in the political tents of both major parties.

While the main headquarters of the National Republican Committee are located in Chicago, the Eastern Division of the Committee is almost as busy as the main headquarters in the "Windy City". Occupying several floors in the Liggett Building, 41 East 42nd Street, the Eastern GOP organization, under the command of Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., is matching wits, press-agentry and Landon-Knox efforts against the activities of the powerful Roosevelt-Farley machine which is operating principally from the Hotel Biltmore, a stone's throw from the Liggett Building.

The Farley organization in the Biltmore, largely manned by government employees assigned to campaign duty, boasts the wily propaganda machine headed by Charles A. Michelson. The efforts of this corps are amplified by a Democratic "propaganda factory", at 200 Madison Avenue, from which huge supplies of New Deal tracts and printed "defenses of the administration" are given country-wide circulation through the medium of direct mail advertising. Here too, at the "factory", may be found relatives of persons high in the New Deal administration and a number of government employees who, National Democratic Chairman James A. Farley blandly says, "Are on leave of absence from government service."

After covering Eastern GOP headquarters and the Farley menage in the Biltmore, the newsmen are wont to retrace their steps to the Liggett Building where, on the fourth and fifth floors can be found the offices of the Republican State Committee, presided over by Republican State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton. The State Chairman, performing one of the best political campaign jobs of his career, is supplementing the efforts of Congressman Martin in carrying the Landon-Knox fight to the New Deal administration and the National Democratic Committee. In addition, he is holding daily conferences with Republican leaders throughout the state who visit New York City, and he is in daily contact with the Albany GOP organization relative to arrangements for the Republican State Convention, to be held in that city on September 28, and 29.

The Gubernatorial Situation

With each passing day it grows more and more apparent that the Republican State Convention will be an "open one" with the delegates selecting the Republican gubernatorial candidate without benefit of pre-convention advice of leaders, or through agreement by these leaders.

This condition, which is one that Republican State Chairman Eaton has declared he favors, comes as a result of the large number of candidates in the field; the contest for the nomination being waged between Senator George R. Fearon, Minority Leader of the Senate, and Mayor Rolland B. Marvin, of Syracuse; the impetus which has been given the candidacy of Supreme Court Justice William F. Bleakley as a result of the deadlock in Onondaga County; reports of some additional strength given the candidacy of Borough President George U. Harvey, because of his ability to cut down large Democratic pluralities in Queens; rumors that at least two prominent Republican "dark horses" will be catapulted into the nomination arena at the convention, "one of whom may sweep the convention when his name is mentioned", and the further statement from Mayor Marvin that he is in the race to stay, and that his name will be presented to the convention regardless of developments between now and September 28 and 29.

Managers of both Senator Fearon and Justice Bleakley continue to wax confident over their choice of "their man" as the convention's nominee. Senator Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, who has been doing a great deal of quiet campaigning in behalf of Senator Fearon during the last six months, reports that "Fearon strength, when it is shown at the convention, will prove overwhelming".

Charles H. Griffiths, GOP leader of Westchester, and preconvention manager for Justice Bleakley, grins happily when he discusses "the pledges made to 'the Judge'," and adds, "We are eminently satisfied with the progress being made by Justice Bleakley, the people's candidate."

And so it goes, proving little save that "it seems probable the convention will decide this important question."

The uncertainty over just who will be the successful GOP candidate for Governor has done one thing at least, and that is to make for sustained publicity and interest in the party and the man who will be chosen as the GOP nominee at the convention.

Eaton to Confer With City Leaders

Republican Assembly District leaders from Kings and Queens Counties, and possibly those from Bronx, Richmond and New York Counties, are scheduled to confer with Republican State Chairman Eaton Thursday, September 10 in the State Committee headquarters, New York City. Queens County district leaders are to be at headquarters at 11 A. M., and those from Kings County at 2:30 P. M. Leaders of the three remaining New York Counties are expected at headquarters at other hours during the day. The purpose of the conferences is to lay before the leaders Republican voting quotas which are deemed possible of attainment in the various election districts in the Greater City. The quotas are based on studies of past election figures and the present strong anti-New Deal trend.

Roosevelt to Lose Hyde Park

Senator Frederic H. Bontecou, Republican leader of Dutchess County, in a statement declared that President Roosevelt will not only lose Dutchess County in the November election by at least 9,100 votes, nearly twice as heavy a defeat as he received there in 1932, but that he would also lose all three districts in Hyde Park, including his own district. The Senator declared the increase in anti-Roosevelt sentiment was marked, and he branded the President is hypocritical in his expressed solicitude for the working people "in that it is generally known he pays extremely low wages to employees on his farm. In fact, the wage scale on his farm represents one of the lowest wage scales on farms extant in the country".

Know the Traffic Laws

At the request of Elmer C. Bovee Chief of Police of Addison, 1936 amendments to the Vehicle and Traffic Laws are being published in this and succeeding issues. Co-operation of the public in observing the new provisions is requested.

CHAPTER 904 effective June 8, 1936, requires that before a learner's permit may be issued, the applicant shall pass a vision test.

CHAPTER 905, effective September 1, 1936, requires that when a person has been convicted of any violation of the Vehicle and Traffic Law or any local ordinance relating to traffic except parking ordinances, the conviction official shall record such facts on the license of the person convicted if space has been provided for that purpose.

CHAPTER 907 provides that every motor vehicle must be equipped with a red reflector on the rear which may be a part of the rear lamp. This law will become effective October 1, 1936. Heretofore, vehicles other than trucks and certain omnibuses did not require reflectors unless manufactured after January 1, 1935.

CHAPTER 908 provides for the exchange of conviction reports between this state and any other state which has also provided for such exchange. This law became effective June 8, 1936.

CHAPTER 909 radically changes the law with respect to leaving the scene of an accident. Provision is now made for the reporting to the owner any damage caused by a motor vehicle and requires that the person causing such damage must exhibit his license to the person sustaining the damage. This law went into effect on June 8, 1936.

CHAPTER 910 establishes on September 1, 1936, the effective date of the law, a State Traffic Commission consisting of the commissioner of motor vehicles as the head, the superintendent of state police and the commissioner of highways. This body is given complete jurisdiction outside cities over the erection, location and maintenance of traffic control signals, lights, warning signs, etc. the establishment of zones where speed may be different than that stated in Section 56 and where permitted by local authorities, the erection of directional signs in cities as a means to facilitate through traffic.

and granting that nearly seventy-five per cent of the labor vote is for Roosevelt would only give him a backlog of approximately three million in that quarter. Add to that the Democrats who have benefited through office-holding, the vote of the solid south the Socialistic converts, and that part of the relief vote which has been led to believe the government benefactions are owed to Roosevelt, and still the President would be far from the twenty-one million odd votes he will need to win this election.

Once the average voter takes stock of the colossal mistakes of this administration, the positive steps it has taken towards bureaucracy and socialism, and the huge debts heaped prodigally upon coming generations, he needs more than empty platitudes and the sound of a "perfect radio voice" to convince him the welfare of the country should be entrusted to Roosevelt's hands. The bad blunders of AAA, NRA and many of other laws outlawed by the Supreme Court after the President shoved them through Congress without regard to the normal functioning of our legislative institutions, have convinced millions of both Republicans and Democrats that the fate of our form of government is in dire danger if left longer in the hands of this administration. The Digest poll and the country newspaper poll now being conducted in this and other weekly papers reflect that attitude of mind by American voters.

GEORGE A. KING

WE SUPPORT
George A. King
For District Attorney
Of Steuben County

The undersigned Republicans, residing in Steuben County, support George A. King of Corning for the Republican Nomination for District Attorney, in the party primary election of Tuesday, September 15.

The campaign which will close that day has been contested so vigorously, and so much has been printed and spoken concerning candidates and issues involved, that we believe we owe it to those to whom we are appealing in behalf of Mr. King, in this advertisement, to state briefly and concisely why we are publicly recommending him to the other Republicans of Steuben County for their vote.

(1) We know that George A. King will perform the duties of District Attorney honorably, diligently and in accordance with the best traditions of the office, and that he will neither FAVOR nor CONDEMN any suspected person because of his religion, his nationality or the amount of money he may possess.

(2) We know Mr. King possesses the native ability, resourcefulness, training in law and experience in both office and court work to most competently and creditably investigate thoroughly, present fairly and prosecute vigorously those who are accused and indicted for violation of the laws of the State.

(3) We know that George A. King's Americanism has and will stand every test.

(4) We know, for he has given us that assurance, that Mr. King will try PERSONALLY each and every case coming under the jurisdiction of the District Attorney and his past success as an attorney indicates that the guilty will be convicted.

(5) We are not concerned about any "issue" involving the salary of the District Attorney for the salary of the office is fixed by a board over which the District Attorney has no control and Mr. King will accept the salary fixed for the office by the representatives of the residents of Steuben County.

GEORGE A. KING
For District Attorney of Steuben County

That Townsend Plan

Seriously, most every person wishes old age to be well provided for, if possible.

The Townsend Plan, even in a modified form, will fall far short of becoming a law unless a drastic cut in government cost is brought about.

The hope for a more sensible economic government rests upon the election of Governor Landon.

The wish of any Townsendite can not be fulfilled in the face of increasing debt.

To Suit All Tastes

TASTES differ; the casket that seems attractive to one client might not please another. Realizing this, we have chosen a wide variety of caskets and other funeral merchandise for our complete display room. No matter what style or material is preferred, there is a model available that will satisfy the most discriminating person.

This is equally true of the other services offered by this firm. Funerals may be had at any price, each one complete and conducted with thoughtful efficiency. We are equipped to perform ceremonies for any religious creed or fraternal organization.

Green Attacks Duplication Of Government Agencies

Immediately following a band concert in Addison last Saturday night, Clifford G. Green, Republican candidate for Congress, addressed about 600 residents of Addison and vicinity from a truck in front of the local high school. Mr. Green said, if the wasted money, now being used to support unnecessary departments of government, town, county, state and federal, were used to subsidize our disabled and blind in sufficient amounts to create a purchasing power above the necessaries of life, this money used for this purpose would create jobs in industry and commerce instead of doles and hand-outs such as WPA, PAW and all the other "made work" projects. Mr. Green said, while it may be true that labor must be subsidized thru made work, one thing we must remember is, "made work" creates "made paupers". Mr. Green told his audience, they should support men for public office that were looking into the ever-changing future, not men whose thinking were holding back from economic recovery. Green declared, there is only one way that America can be brought out of her present economic collapse and, that was, we must "subsidize consumption" as we have subsidized production and distribution, to create an equal parity of the three fundamental factors of economics, production, distribution and consumption. Mr. Green stated that no nation could ever expect to survive, half pauper and half prosperous. Mr. Green told his audience that as a nation, we can produce ten times as much as we can consume, not because we do not have the need, but because, we do not have an equitable distribution of purchasing power among all the people of our nation.

Primary Day Election Tuesday, September 15

Every registered voter should express his or her preference in the Primary election to be held Tuesday, September 15, from noon until nine o'clock in the evening. This is the opportunity for voters of all parties to express their preference for nomination of candidates to run for county offices in the November election. It is the privilege and duty for every patriotic citizen to vote on Primary Day.

A successful kitchen is so planned and equipped that every member of the family can enjoy it. Cornell bulletin E-354 tells how to develop such a kitchen and single copies are sent free on request from the Office of Publication, Roberts Hall, Ithaca, N. Y.

Saving is earning, and one of the best ways to cut the corners on costs. Cornell has a bulletin, E-349, that tells how to figure and save on credit charges. Single copies may be had free from the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.

TO ENROLLED REPUBLICANS

THE COMMITTEE ON VACANCIES on the nominating petitions of Wilson Messer designated me on AUGUST 20th. By filing objections on purely technical grounds my opponent, Mr. Platt, succeeded in preventing any campaign on my part until Judge Wheeler's decision was filed on SEPTEMBER 4th. He limited me to a campaign of exactly SEVEN DAYS, exclusive of Sundays, Holiday and Primary Day itself.

Of necessity I can make no personal canvass to offset his campaign lasting several months. My only opportunity is to talk to you through the Public Press and by means of political advertising. Please afford me a hearing by a careful reading of a few facts I desire to present.

SCHOOL TAXES SAVED

The figures I present are taken from the official records of the County Treasurer. Whether I am justified in claiming credit for the result can be ascertained from any School Board, School Trustee or Teacher. As President of the New York State School Boards Association I personally made the fight at Albany, without compensation, and entirely in the interest of the children in our Public Schools and the Taxpayers.

Our Schools receive their money from two sources.

REAL ESTATE TAXES AND STATE AID

Any cut in State Aid means an increase in Real Estate Tax. No part of State Aid comes from a tax on Real Estate.

Any increase in State Aid means a lower School Tax.

In 1933 and 1934 Governor Lehman in his Budget allotted 90% only of the State Aid earned by School Districts by virtue of the pupil enrollment, which is the main basis for such allotment.

At the Special Session of the Legislature in August, 1934 I led the fight to restore to School Districts for 1935 the 10% taken away at the Regular Session of the Legislature. I took charge of the Public Hearing before the Legislative Committees, introduced the speakers and opened and summed up the arguments. The next day the Assembly voted 126 to 0 in favor of our request, and the Senate did likewise.

TODAY WE HAVE FULL STATE AID

It has saved the Taxpayers in 1935 and 1936 in the ASSEMBLY DISTRICT $118,593.00.

Divided into communities the savings follow:

Town of Addison Complete	$ 7,741
Town of Tuscarora complete	943
City of Corning complete	36,270
Town of Bath complete	23,431
Bradford Central School	12,756

My work at albany has made me familiar with Legislative procedure, and has given me a close personal acquaintance with the Leaders in both Houses. Some I have known intimately for thirty years.

If you believe I have the character, ability and energy to competently represent our District in the Assembly, I respectfully ask your support.

Sincerely yours,
GUY W. CHENEY.

DEMOCRATS! — NOMINATE FOR MEMBER OF ASSEMBLY

Spencer Longwell

WHY
M. STUART
Should Be Nominated
For
The Assembly

As one individual among several thousand who intend to vote for Mr. Stuart, this is why I believe he should be nominated:

A man of unquestioned ability and integrity, he is able to give his entire time to the position. A forceful public speaker, he will work fearlessly and hard for what he believes to be right and for the best interests of the district. Although he has always been an ardent and loyal worker for the Republican party, he has never sought an elective office outside his own village and, in order to insure harmony, has on occasion withheld his own candidacy for the welfare of others. Widely experienced in executive and administrative duties, he has served as postmaster, member of the board of education and village trustee, in addition to his many activities in church work and fraternalism. A man of high ideals, he will serve his district honestly, efficiently and vigorously and —above all—will keep the faith. So much for his public record. In private he is revealed as a dominant personality, strictly honest, kindly, easy to get acquainted with, a fine Christian gentleman. Certainly Mr. Stuart is the ideal man to send to the Assembly. That is why I am for him.

BRASS TACKS For POULTRY RAISERS

By BURTON P. THARP

CULLING PULLETS

Profitable poultry raising depends largely on a rigid program of culling. No pullet should be kept unless she rates high on the points of the culling program.

Unfortunately about one out of every three pullets raised should be culled and sold. These undesirable birds should be disposed of as quickly as possible in order to save feed. With the high cost of feed this year the pullets will have to meet a high standard of qualifications in order to pay for their feed and show a profit.

There are many characteristics in a pullet which may be considered in the culling. The bird should not be thrown out if she does not have every one of the characteristics. Only the points which may be easily found by the average poultry raiser will be included in this article. Others may be found by the advanced poultryman and literature may be secured from the various agricultural colleges.

For the novice a few simple points will enable him to do a good job. Save all birds which rate high in the points considered.

A pullet should make a good layer if she has shown rapid growth and feathering. Good pullets are active, large and well proportioned. The head should be of medium length and well formed with large, prominent, clear eyes. She should be in good health with a plump, waxy comb.

A long, deep body is essential to heavy egg production. Run the hand along the back from the shoulders to the tail. The back of a good pullet is broad and full to the tail.

In every flock there will be some pullets that puzzle the beginner. Comparison should be made with birds rated high and then if there is doubt the birds should be kept several weeks and watched closely.

Place leg bands on the best birds and those which have most of the essential characteristics of good layers. Leave the questionable pullets unbanded. After four to eight weeks examine the birds again for evidence of laying. When they are eight months of age and have not laid they should be disposed of as unprofitable.

In all culling consideration should be given the breed of poultry, the conditions under which they have been raised and the conditions under which they are expected to lay. All these factors enter into the situation and cause variations. Feed is the most important factor and no pullet can be expected to develop properly and lay without proper feed.

A PROMISE

Three years ago Fred A. Cornell ran for Sheriff. He had never held office. He promised the Taxpayers of Steuben County that if nominated and elected he would REDUCE THE COSTS OF RUNNING THE OFFICE; he would maintain the efficiency of the Administration; he would act for the benefit of all the people; he would grant no favors to any person that conflicted with strict enforcement of the law.

THE FULFILLMENT

Fred A. Cornell has lived up to that promise far beyond the expectations of even his best friends. During his first year as Sheriff he reduced the total expense of the office over the corresponding previous sheriff . . . . $8,486.84.

During his second year he likewise saved the taxpayers the total sum of $5,719.36 which would have been $4,500.00 greater had it not been for having to pay that amount ($4,500.00) for special deputy and police service on account of the flood of July, 1935.

Thus far this year expenses of the Sheriff's office have been $10,031.89 with only one more audit.

As Sheriff, Cornell has saved the taxpayers to date the sum of $18,883.16.

FOR COUNTY TREASURER

Sheriff Cornell has held a salaried office LESS THAN 3 years while his opponent has been on the payrolls of Steuben County for 27 consecutive years. The official records of the county prove the above figures but they do NOT show the other much greater amount Sheriff Cornell HAS SAVED THE TAXPAYERS by his honesty, ability and strict integrity in the purchase of supplies, materials and the general management of the jail. Being a capable and experienced business man he has favored no one except the county in obtaining the best discounts and the lowest prices. No shadow of scandal or suspicion has ever crossed his path.

If Fred A. Cornell is nominated for County Treasurer next Tuesday, Sept. 15, he will as County Treasurer administer the office with the highest efficiency and economy. He will devote his full time to the work. Every person in the county, prominent or humble, will receive exactly the same fair play and courteous treatment. He has done his full duty as Sheriff and has saved you money. He now asks you for fair play and for your support.

PENSIONS

Under the State Pension Fund every county employee pays a percentage of his or her salary into the State Comptroller's office for retirement pensions. The official statement of the State Comptroller's office is as follows:

> Any member discontinued from service through no fault or delinquency of his or her own AFTER HAVING COMPLETED 20 YEARS OF TOTAL SERVICE IS ENTITLED TO THE PENSION."

This pension is not paid by the Taxpayers. It is paid from the annual percentage the employees pay from the salaries and from public aid which this and every other county in the state is assessed annually. THE FACTS ARE that if every employee of Steuben County who has served 20 years or longer were to retire now their pensions would be paid from this fund ALREADY IN THE STATE COMPTROLLER'S HANDS. It would not make one cent difference with present or future taxes. Mr. Cornell has, during his term as Sheriff, paid into this fund $174 annually for 3 years. These pensions, it should be remembered, are for life. To be defeated for continuously holding office is NOT considered due to any "fault or delinquency" of the person entitled to the pension after 27 years or more service, as the present County Treasurer is.

FRED A. CORNELL FOR COUNTY TREASURER HAS THE ENDORSEMENT OF SCORES OF PROMINENT MEN AND WOMEN, MINISTERS, TEACHERS AND PERSONS IN EVERY WALK OF LIFE.

VOTE FOR FRED A. CORNELL FOR COUNTY TREASURER.

Landon Gains in Second Week Of Nation-Wide Presidential Poll

Ballots From 41 States Show Heavy Voting at Many Points—Kansan Leads in 26 States—Early Returns Develop "Hot Spot" Voting Centers Which Opposition May Iron Out Before Final Vote is Recorded.

New York, Sept. 7—Nearly a quarter of a million ballots (211,247) had been tabulated here, state by state, at the end of the second week in the nation-wide Presidential poll which is being conducted by smaller town daily and weekly newspapers throughout the country.

These votes, from 41 states, are divided between the six Presidential candidates as follows:

Landon	126,786	60%
Roosevelt	69,886	33.1%
Lemke	10,189	04.8%
Thomas	1,930	00.9%
Colvin	759	00.4%
Browder	1,697	00.8%
Total	211,247

The vote to date, 41 states, as between Roosevelt and Landon only, —total vote of 196,672 ballots:

Landon	126,786	64.5%
Roosevelt	69,886	35.5%

The vote to date, 41 states, as between Landon, Roosevelt and Lemke only—total vote of 206,861 ballots:

Landon	126,786	61.2%
Roosevelt	69,886	33.8%
Lemke	10,189	05.0%

Of the 41 states from which ballots have been received, in 5 of them the returns were so scattered and so few in number that while they have been included they are not considered indicative by those in charge of the tabulation. These five states are: Mississippi, Nevada, Oregon Vermont and Arkansas. the other 36 states are divided as follows:

Landon	26 states
Roosevelt	9 staees
Tied—Nebraska	1 state
Total	36 states

Of the 36 states, Landon is leading in the following at this time: California, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

The nine states in which Roosevelt leads at this time are: Alabama, Connecticut, Florida, Idaho, Michigan, Montana, North Carolina, Texas and Utah.

Sharp Landon Increase

In presenting these totals, at the end of the second week of state by state tabulation, there is recorded the sharpest variation in leading candidate gain ever recorded in similar nation-wide balloting. Last week's tabulation, state by state, was 74,703 votes; this week, 137,544 votes for a total of 211,247 votes.

The Landon percentage lead was increased as follows:

Landon	54.5%	64.5%
Roosevelt	45.5%	35.5%

The state by state tabulation of this Presidential poll, as presented herewith, shows many "hot spots" for the different candidates at this time, but they are "hot spots" which may be ironed out by the opposition as additional ballots from the readers of others newspapers in those states arrive at National Straw-vote headquarters here for tabulation.

The Publishers Autocaster Service Company here, which serves hundreds of the newspapers conducting this poll, is serving as national straw-vote headquarters to tabulate the national vote. It has served in the same capacity in previous national polls since 1924.

Have You Yet Voted?

The ADDISON ADVERTISER and WOODHULL SENTINEL are cooperating in this nation-wide poll and offer their readers the opportunity to cast a ballot for their Presidential choice for the next four years. It is an opportunity for all voters here to show their fellow voters in other states who we here in this territory intend to vote for at the national election polls in November.

All legal voters are invited to clip the Presidential Straw-Vote Ballot, vote it as they wish, then mail or bring the ballot to the ADVERTISER office. The local vote is tabulated and announced here weekly, then the ballots are sent to New York, to national straw-vote headquarters for national state by state tabulation.

Hundreds of daily and weekly newspapers, located in states thruout the nation, are participating in this poll and the final results should furnish some most interesting figures for speculation and at the same time show the political sentiment in small towns and rural America during these early weeks of the Presidential campaign.

In casting a ballot in this nation-wide presidential poll, the voters are under no obligation to sign their names. The space on the ballot for the name of the town and the state, from which the voter expects to vote in November, is placed there to assist in an accurate tabulation of the national vote. Voters may be sure that their ballot is properly tabulated if they will assist by writing in the name of the town and state where they expect to vote in November.

Clip and vote the ballot today for your favorite candidate. Then mail or send it to this newspaper office.

Home Bureau Planning For Busy Month

September will be a busy month in Home Bureau units throughout Steuben County. At a recent meeting of Vice Chairmen it was decided that September would be the month for the membership campaign which will be carried on in the form of a contest with prizes for units having the highest percentages of new members and renewals. Local unit Vice Chairmen taking part in the contest are: Mrs. George Mead, Addison; Mrs. Clo Vrooman, Avoca; Mrs. L. J. Walder, Bath; Miss Amy Brasted, Canisteo; Mrs. Henry Lane, Campbell Creek; Mrs. Lydia Sick, Cohocton; Mrs. Arling Cobb, Greenwood; Mrs. W. E. Hunter, Hammondsport; Mrs. F. P. Williams, Hornell; Mrs. Ina Brasted, Howard; Mrs. Jay Kniffin, Kanona; Mrs. Kenneth Graham, Painted Post; Miss Viola Damoth, Pleasant Valley; Mrs. S. A. Purdy, Savona; Mrs. Walter Wood, South Dansville; Mrs. Harvey Giveans, Bradford-Sonora; Mrs. Fannie Lawson, Troupsburg; Mrs. John Morsch, Wayland.

The contest will close on Wednesday, September 7, with a membership rally to which all women of the county are invited. There will be special recognition of units having the largest number present. Plans for the fall are in charge of Mrs. Gordon Conderman of Howard and the meeting will be held at the Howard Grange Hall.

As previously announced the Steuben County Home Bureau is exhibiting at the State Fair from September 6th to 12th. Returning from State Fair the exhibit will be put on at the Bath Fair September 15 to 19 and in addition the Home Bureau is planning again to conduct the milk booth at the Bath Fair.

The week of September 21 will be another busy time. A new household management specialist, Miss Jean Warren, will have charge of kitchen conferences in a number of homes in the county scheduled as follows:

Monday, Sept. 21, at 10 o'clock, meeting with Mrs. H. D. Wood of Corning; at 1:30 meeting with Mrs. R. G. Allen of Painted Post.

Wednesday, Sept. 23, kitchen meetings in Hammondsport as follows: 10 o'clock Mrs. Frank Miller; 1:00 o'clock, Mrs. W. E. Hunter; 3:30, Miss Marion Hamilton.

Tuesday, Sept. 24, a conference will be held with Mrs. Alvaro Lyke of Howard beginning at 10 o'clock. The afternoon will be devoted to a discussion of making the kitchen of the Union Church at Howard more convenient.

Friday, Sept. 25, will be Addison day with visits at the home of Mrs. Thomas Hopper at 9:30; Mrs. Floyd Van Nortwick, 11:00; Mrs. Clifford Moyer at 1:00 and Mrs. Frank A. Smith at 3:00.

These kitchen conferences are meetings right in the individual kitchens with all interested women of the community invited to take part. The homemakers' kitchen problems, no matter where they are, are discussed and suggestions from all the women present help to give a practical solution. Sometimes there is a problem of complete reconstruction, of buying and placing new equipment, but most frequently homemakers are anxious to know how they can improve their kitchens without cost.

On Tuesday, September 22 a very special kind of meeting is being planned. Place of meeting has not been decided but each organized Home Bureau group will be asked to send one or two representatives to attend separate discussions on housing and household management work. Mrs. Ruth Comstock, housing specialist, will meet with the housing representatives to discuss their duties in their local unit and community. Miss Jean Warren, household management specialist, will lead the conference of household management representatives, discussing how homemakers' problems may be worked into organized projects to be studied in the coming years' program.

A special feature of the September Home Bureau program will be field trips, held on the 29th and 30th. Last year women interested in knowing more about native plants, shrubs and trees, took part in a series of field trips. These were so popular that they have been requested again and scheduled. This year the trips will be in charge of Professor Don Bushey, landscaping specialist from the College of Agriculture. Trips are planned to learn to identify native materials and also to discuss the merits of the various ones for use in landscaping home grounds.

The trip on September 29 will begin at 1 o'clock with a short talk by Professor Bushey, the place to be announced. Location of the trip will be along the Wayland-Loon Lake highway and through the Neils Creek valley. On September 30, the trip is planned for all-day and will begin with the talk at 10 o'clock, place to be announced. Stops that day will be along the Bradford-Savona road and the Bath-Mitchellville Road. Luncheon plans also will be announced later. An invitation is extended to all interested men and women to attend one of these trips.

is already pensioned from his former position and is in a condition of practical independence . . .

"But to return to the subject of Joseph Bailey, his career as undersheriff has been markedly successful. There is no reason to believe that he would fail to fulfill an economy promise. To our mind he is the best man for the office, we urge every Republican to vote for Joseph Bailey for the nomination for sheriff."

Frank C. Platt Outlines His Platform in Erwins Speech

Frank C. Platt, candidate for member of assembly in the First Assembly District, addressed an enthusiastic meeting of Erwin Republicans at the town hall last evening. The former State Senator said in part:

"The battle is now on between Mr. Cheney and myself. If the people of this district feel that they want to be represented in the State Assembly by a man whose sole interest is with the legal profession, of course, we laymen must be content. For my part, however, I believe that the good sense of the Republican electors will say, that they do not care to be represented by a lawyer nor do they care to be burdened with the additional taxes which one in Mr. Cheney's place would be apt to thrust upon them.

"I cannot understand why Mr. Cheney desires this office. His extensive law practice, with his efforts to create centralized school districts. his speeches and radio talks against tax limitations, I should think would give him little time to devote to the duties of an assemblyman. I understand that he has demanded and received in compensation from each centralized school district so created from $1,200.00 to $1,500.00. As he has many such projects underway, his time must be pretty well occupied, leaving the thought in mind, as to just why Mr. Cheney has suddenly aspired to this office.

"I am in favor of social security as provided in the measure defeated in the State Assembly this year. Every Republican senator voted for it. So, they, at least, could not have considered it a partisan measure. This year the Steuben County appropriations for the Board of Child Welfare was $47,938.00, for the care of the blind $4,200.00 or a total appropriation $52,138.00. This sum was included in the budget and was therefore a direct tax upon real estate. Had this Social Security measure been approved by the Assembly it would have saved the real estate taxpayers of Steuben County from $35,000 to $40,000 per year.

"It sounds brave to talk about a county running its own affairs without dictation from the state or Federal Government, but it's mighty expensive for the taxpayers to do without this aid. This relief problem is not temporary but will be with us for a long time, and if local communities are compelled to bear the whole burden of relief, a large part of our real estate will be sold for taxes.

"Personally I believe with Judge Pratt that the farms and small homes should not be burdened with all or nearly all of the cost of government. Mr. Cheney has taken the stand against limiting taxes on real estate and limiting the amount of debt which may be incurred by municipalities. I am in favor of such limitation. I shall make my campaign among other things on that ground. The taxpayers know that Mr. Cheney's record while in public office has always been that of a spender. If the taxpayers believe in the extravagant expenditure of their money and should say so by their vote for Mr. Cheney, then of course, we shall be compelled to abide by the decision of the majority.

"Gentlemen, I want to touch on the very unusual proceedings, (to use a mild term) of the past twenty-five days Mr. Messer and I were candidates for the nomination of member of assembly. Each of us went before the enrolled Republican voters and were petitioned by them to have our names placed upon the primary ballot. Mr. Messer filed his petition on August 10th. I filed mine on August 11th. Our petitions were signed mainly by those who desired to support us at the primary election and these signers had the right to assume that we would continue to be candidates until the primary election. Four days after filing his petition Mr. Messer on August 14th filed his declination and with it was filed, by the Messer committee, the designation and acceptance of Mr. Bryan. On August 17th it was disclosed that Mr. Bryan was ineligible and then the Messer committee commenced to shop around for another candidate. Several men who were not lawyers sought the designation, but this committee wanted a lawyer and Mr. Cheney was designated. But in their anxiety and haste to place a lawyer on the primary ticket, they first designated one who was ineligible and then violated the election law in designating Mr. Cheney. Then—I was compelled to file objections and take the matter to the Supreme Court in order to make Mr. Cheney a legal candidate.

"I wonder if the 725 voters who signed the Messer petition approve of this unusual proceeding and are willing to be delivered to the candidate this committee selected for them.

"In the primary election to be held next Tuesday 12,600 enrolled Republican voters in the first Assembly district will make their designation of candidates to be placed upon the general election ticket. I believe that they will express in no uncertain manner their disapproval of the method of the group which is determined to defeat me at any cost. I am willing to accept their verdict.

"In conclusion, gentlemen, as former member of assembly and State Senator I supported every bill which I believed benefited my constituents, although some of the measures that I supported, were opposed by my party leaders. I voted for every worth while labor bill which came before either branch of the legislature, including the Full-Crew Bill and Light Engine Bill, and in 1912 when I was a candidate for State Senator I had the endorsement of the four Railroad Brotherhoods. As a member of the Legislature it made no difference to me whether bills which I considered beneficial were introduced by Republicans or Democrats.

"I am a Republican and on measures which were purely political I always followed party leadership. On measures which were not political I endeavored to truly represent all groups and classes.

"If nominated and elected I shall continue to carry out this policy and shall consider that I am a servant of all the people in the first assembly district, not their boss."
